Column One
By David Courtney

THERE was an important well set-up look about the lounges of the King David Hotel yesterday. It was obvious that there was a convention on, but no one who was not aware of the background could have guessed that it had been called to talk about ways and means of setting a nation's economy right. There was a hint that the Government would prefer that no one should guess it. Mr. Sharett told pressmen that the conference which opened yesterday would have nothing to do with the present economic emergency. Its exclusive purpose was to think out a scheme or series of schemes for the future. But it is difficult to see how financial schemes for the future can be got under way without regard for the needs of the present. A dual economy, with the present crisis detached from future planning, does not sound very realistic.

AT the King David Hotel there seemed to be a desire to give the impression that the conference was not an emergency gathering. But if the people in the lobbies looked merely friendly, the Ministers striding off across the carpet to a private room looked solemn and anxious. They had occasion to, one imagines; and their manner, if not the few words that could be got from them, plainly suggested that the meeting was a matter of very considerable immediate importance.

OF course it is. The State needs help now in order to be fit to make the best use of such help as it may receive in the future; and needs an assurance of help in the future in order to be able to tackle the present urgent problems with the knowledge that they need not recur in a few months' time. It is surprising that the Government, with this in mind, is not franker about the nature and extent of the present problems instead of relying upon the denials of press exaggerations, which are certain to continue unless the public is taken reasonably into the Government's confidence.

IT is not, and should not be, the Government's intention to ask the Americans to shoulder the whole burden. The present needs, where they do not stem from the immigrants, are within the resources of the nation. Mr. Sharett pointed that out yesterday. He might have added that they are within the resources of the nation as long as the bulk of the development needs over the next few years becomes the responsibility of American Jewry, with some help from British Commonwealth Jewry And still better would it have been if he or Mr. Kaplan had added that present needs will be met from present resources if the public of Israel loyally and whole-heartedly performs its duty to the nation.

THAT is where the necessity for a franker exposition of the crisis comes in. In its absence, there is a tendency on the part of the public to do what it can to escape the consequences of crisis. It is a public well used to the technique; and encouraged in its performance by some of the bigger industrial and economic institutions of the country. That, perhaps, is one of the most disappointing factors in the whole problem. There was a time when something like national leadership was given by such institutions as the Co-operatives. It is not being given now.

BUT when all htis is said, it should be recognized that no Government of Israel and no public of this infant State, could ever have borne alone the burden undertaken when the State was formed; and pledged long before the State was formed — a pledge eagerly given but at the same time required by those who nobly backed their efforts with financial and political support. The State of Israel is working not only to solve its own problems as a State but also to solve the great problem of international Jewry; and that responsibility is surely one that should be shared by every Jew capable of sharing it.

Bitter Fighting On Korea Front

TOKYO, Sunday. — Heavy fighting in the northwest corner of the United Nations defence wall in Korea was reported becoming more dangerous tonight with small groups of Communists within 15 kms. of the vital city of Taegu.

A U.N. spokesman said, however, that the enemy penetration north of Taegu has been halted and that the Americans were now putting pressure on the enemy.

On the main "west wall," Northern forces were said to have advanced more than three miles from their Naktong River bridgehead.

But the American Second Infantry Division and First Marine Brigade are reported to have rolled the North Koreans back south and west of Yonghan on the Naktong front. The former pushed south of Yonghan to recapture strong positions overlooking the east bank of the Naktong.

On the southern front, the American 25th Division completely restored the line it held before the big enemy drive toward Masan and Pusan started.

A spokesman here added that the Communists were moving "tremendous" amounts of supplies and troops south from Kunwi, northeast of Taegu, by hundreds of coolies.

Allied planes were blasting this human chain-belt but the movement was continuing.

Waves of B29 Superfortresses, supported by fighters and light bombers, struck at nine objectives in the immediate rear of the North Korean battlelines when clearing weather permitted the third successive day of maximum air force support to the ground forces.

Pilots said they knocked out three cannon-carrying vehicles and damaged three others. The Fifth Air Force said its planes flew 280 sorties by mid-afternoon while carrier-based Marine planes roared against the Northerners in 25 sorties.

Two F80 jets, directed by ground controllers, were credited with breaking up a battle in a ridge south of Kunwi, where U.N. troops have been surrounded.

Iraq Cabinet Resignation Reported

The seven-months-old Iraqi coalition cabinet has resigned, the Near Eastern Arab Broadcasting Station announced today.

The resignation came on the eve of General Nuri's fourth visit to London for a continuation of the talks between Iraq and the Iraq Petroleum Company.

The radio said that Regent Abdul Illah, who is already in London, will probably cable Premier Tewfik el Suweidei, asking him to stay in office until his and Said's return, scheduled for the middle of this month.

Possible New Government

General Nuri's Constituent party may form a new cabinet with the veteran Iraqi statesman either as Premier or as Foreign Minister, it was reported. The two powerful opposition parties, the National and Democratic parties, are expected to remain out of the government.

The radio report added that the recent attitude of the Iraqi delegation to the Arab League's Alexandria session, which adopted a resolution to support Lebanon against Turkey for the vacant Security Council seat, faced Suweidei's cabinet with sufficient opposition to force it to resign.

The country's rapidly worsening economic situation, which is reflected in the present state budget deficit of over £10 million, was also regarded as a factor in the resignation.

U.S. Leaders Hear Four-Year, Billion-Dollar Plan from P.M.

Jerusalem Post Correspondent

A distinguished group of some 50 business and community leaders from the United States, and a small number from Britain and South Africa, with the members of the Cabinet and the Jewish Agency Executive in Jerusalem, yesterday afternoon heard the Prime Minister outline the billion-and-a-half Four-Year plan that is to provide for the housing, employment and absorption of the 600,000 more immigrants expected by 1953.

"The Jews in a number of countries have no choice," he said. "The Jews in Israel also have no choice," but they would need the help of those present at the conference to carry out this gigantic task.

Before the doors of the conference room were barred to the press, the Prime Minister extended a warm welcome to the Americans who had responded to the invitation, and said this was evidence of the close partnership between Israel and the Jews throughout the world. He invited them to express their views freely and frankly.

President's Message

Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett then read a message from President Chaim Weizmann, who said that only his continuing convalescence from a serious illness had prevented him from attending.

"Hitherto the bulk of the responsibility of caring for uprooted and impoverished Jewish communities has devolved upon American Jewry which spent untold sums on relief measures.

Permanent Homes

"The establishment of the State of Israel now offers an unprecedented chance of providing permanent homes to the unsettled Jewries of Europe and the Middle East under conditions of full equality among their own kith and kin.

"The situation presents a unique challenge to American Jewish statesmanship and foresight. The problem can be solved only if American Jewry is faithful to its noble traditions of Jewish brotherhood, and assumes a predominant share not merely in financing but also in planning this vast effort of immigration, resettlement and consolidation."

Mr. Berl Locker, chairman of the Jewish Agency Executive, then analysed in detail the importance of immigration both to the Jews of the world and to Israel. After this, the Prime Minister spoke at a closed meeting from which the press was excluded.

Long-Term Policy

Earlier, the Foreign Minister told correspondents that the long-planned conference was designed to provide the Government with a basis for laying down a well thought out, long term policy. He stressed that the conference had been planned months ago and had nothing to do with the present economic emergency and that it was not seeking haphazard measures of temporary relief.

The conference, Mr. Sharett said, will deal with the future and not the present or the past.

"Its keynote will be the need to accelerate production, not how to alleviate the present hardships of the consuming public," he said.

"Israel as a going concern, with all its assets and liabilities, is the exclusive preoccupation of its government," Mr. Sharett went on. "Israel's mission in Jewish history and in contemporary Jewish life is the responsibility in which Jews everywhere must actively participate.

"In fulfilment of that mission, the State has sustained immense and staggering burdens," Mr. Sharett went on. "To be sure, it has not done so alone and unaided. Jews throughout the world, and most notably those of the United States, have always helped, faithfully and generously.

"Yet in blood and treasure the people of Israel themselves have contributed the lion's share. Much as has already been achieved, the task is yet far from completion. The revolution which has produced the spectacular emergence of Israel and the Messianic, epoch-making movement of the ingathering of exiles, is still continuing its majestic, irresistible and triumphant march."

Mr. Sharett reviewed the development of the past two and a quarter years when 460,000 immigrants entered Israel, and listed the achievements in settlement, building and industry. The same — if not a quicker — pace must be envisaged for the next few years, he said.

Anticipating no falling off in the rate of immigration, Mr. Sharett said that the effects of endemic fanaticism and the fear of an imminent world conflict on the one hand, would intensify the urge to go, and on the other hand make rescue imperative.

Gathering Storm

He warned that economic development must not lag behind immigration, and must aim to make up for past deficiencies.

"The ever-increasing potentialities of Israel within her frontiers, which she is determined to hold and defend, must be speedily utilized, for in this respect too, the gathering world storm compels urgency."

Mr. Sharett stressed that the decisions which will be adopted as the result of this consultation will be in the last resort the responsibility of the Government of Israel. He hoped the conference would produce "a broad outline of a master-plan for a new and bold departure which will enable us to continue the work on a broader basis, at an accelerated pace and with increased confidence in the future.

"The conference affords a unique opportunity for intimate contact between the two sets of participants — the two collective partners in the great joint enterprise — American Jewry and Israel. It should make possible a dynamic integration of the two aspects of the problem — the need of the work in Israel and the possibility of increased assistance from the United States. It should inspire those engaged on the financial front with the extraordinary drive which has marked Israel's reconstruction and progress.

"As a result a spirit of united determination should be created which would ensure for the new effort, when launched, an overwhelming measure of active support from all constructive elements in American-Jewish life, counting on the ever-present goodwill of the Government and people of the United States.

How to Raise Money

Finance Minister Eliezer Kaplan said that the Government was bringing a blueprint of plans to the conference, and would have suggestions as to how to raise the money.

In reply to questions, he said the Government had appropriated IL.80m. for housing, employment and settlement since the State was established, and had spent IL.50m. of these by July.

He said there had been no discussion in the Government on devaluation and it was not contemplated to freeze deposits. Withdrawals during the past month amounted to IL.7m. or five per cent of deposits.

The press conference was conducted by Mr. Gershon Agron, the Government Director of Information.

In the evening, the delegates and official guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gurion at their house in Rehavia.

Evening Debate

At the evening session, Dr. Eliezer Kaplan, Minister of Finance, made a statement on the position, followed by a debate in which Judge Morris Rothenberg, of United Palestine Appeal, Mr. Monroe Goldwater, of the American J.D.C., Mr. Joseph Meyerhoff, President of the Jewish Welfare Fund of Baltimore, and Mr. Julian B. Venezky, of the U.J.A., took part. The debate was wound up by Dr. Nahum Goldmann.

Dr. Nahum Goldman, Chairman of the American branch of the Jewish Agency, who has just returned from a tour of South Africa on behalf of the United Jewish Appeal, made a statement on the purposes of the conference, as viewed by Zionists in the United States.

The U.S. guests are scheduled to tour the country today, and in the evening will dine with Rav-Aloof Yigael Yadin, Chief of Staff, at Sarafand.

Prime Minister David Ben Gurion declared in Jerusalem yesterday that more than 1,400,000 Jews in Eastern Europe, Africa and Asia were seeking to come to Israel, and a minimum of 600,000 of them must be brought here in the next three years if they are to be saved from destruction.

He was speaking at the economic conference of Israel and U.S. leaders.

"Most of the immigrants in the next three years will come from Oriental and Moslem countries from Africa and Asia and from countries behind the Iron Curtain," Mr. Ben Gurion said.

The Prime Minister stressed that the entry of 200,000 people a year for the next three years was a matter of great urgency.

Fear of War

"The element of time is most important. We earnestly hope that the recent action of the United Nations in Korea under the leadership of the United States will serve to strengthen peace in the world," he said. "It would be a crime if we did not use every minute to consolidate and strengthen our economy and bring in all those Jews from Europe and the Moslem countries whose choice lies between destruction and independence and freedom through migration to Israel."

> Alchemy
> Overheard in the King David Hotel lobby yesterday:
> "That was quite a talk he gave. That guy can make a wad of figures labelled demography sound like the Apocalypse itself."

Mr. Ben Gurion laid great stress on the importance of the participation of the American business and communal leaders in providing for the needs of immigration and economic absorption. The three-year programme will require $1,500,000,000, he said, of which Israel will provide $500,000,000 and $1,000,000,000 will have to come from overseas, principally the United States.

No Choice

The Jews in a number of countries have no choice, said Mr. Ben Gurion. "We in Israel also have no choice," he added. "Despite all our difficulties this flow of immigration must continue.

"We know that this small country of ours is threatened with a second round by the Arab states, who are receiving arms from abroad. At the same time there is practicaly an embargo on arms for Israel from the United States and England. We carry a heavier burden of defence than the people of the United States.

"While we are still young and still struggling to get on our feet, we have no choice. We must take these people in. It may be politically irrational. It may be economically not feasible. But since when has a mother refused to save her own children?"

Asserting that Israel was fully aware of the great problems and difficulties involved in such a flood of immigration, the Prime Minister quoted reports on intelligence tests which had been done by newcomers to disprove the suggestion that "this new wave of immigration coming from backward and poverty ridden countries will lower the intellectual and spiritual level of the Jewish community in Israel."

While Israel is already experiencing a severe lack of skilled labour, professional workers, engineers, nurses and doctors, Mr. Ben Gurion stressed the fact that immigrants from Oriental countries during the past two years had proved themselves to be excellent pioneer material. However, he expressed the hope that the Western countries would send skilled workers and professional men to serve in the development of the country.

New Settlements

During the past two years 340 new agricultural settlements were founded, 2,100,000 dunams taken under cultivation, and 82,000 individuals placed on the land, the Prime Minister reported, adding that "these amazing developments were made possible by the Oriental Jews from Turkey, Yemen and Morocco, and the Jews from Eastern Europe."

In presenting the needs confronting Israel in the absorption of 600,000 new immigrants in the next three years, the Prime Minister pointed out that a sum of from 200 million pounds to 250 million pounds would be needed to settle 60,000 families on the land, and that another 150 million pounds would be required to provide housing for a total of 700,000 newcomers, which would include the 90,000 who are now waiting in the reception camps for new homes.

A total of $1,500,000,000 for the next three years was needed, he explained, for the following purposes:

a) to provide full employment for all immigrants in the period up to 1953;

b) to expand production not only for internal consumption but in order to increase exports and to lessen Israel's dependence on foreign exchange.

"We do not believe in coordinated planning exclusively. We do not believe in a regimented economy. In every branch of industry there is ample opportunity for private initiative. But you can not bring in hundreds of thousands of people into a young country like Israel without planning their housing and employment, and the adequate development of agriculture."

Campaigns Discussed

Fund campaigns abroad were discussed at a special session of the Jewish Agency Executive held yesterday morning in Jerusalem. The Executive's American Section was represented at the meeting by Dr. Nahum Goldmann, Mrs. Rose Halprin, Mr. Baruch Zukerman and Mr. Gottlieb Hammer. Mr. Berl Locker was in the chair.

Cost of Ingathering

Immigration and settlement expenditures amounted to IL.21,525,108 for the period from Oct. 1949 to March 1950, it was reported yesterday by the Keren Hayesod. This sum represents 96.1 per cent of the total Jewish Agency expenditure of IL.22,507,427 for this period.

West Concludes Defence Parley

LONDON, Sunday, (Reuter). The 12 North Atlantic Council deputies completed their present session here yesterday, but issued no communique or details of their final meeting.

Their American Chairman, Mr. Charles Spofford, is expected to issue a statement on the session — the deputies' second—before he leaves for Washington tomorrow.

Real progress, according to sources close to the deputies, has been achieved towards agreement on short and long term methods of financing an accelerated and increased defence effort.

Financial Pool

The deputies, it was understood, have agreed to setting up a pool to finance the joint military effort of the North Atlantic powers. It is not yet clear what machinery will be adopted to overcome the difficulties of domestic legislation involved.

British and Belgian decisions to lengthen the period of military service, and the forecast of similar measures in France by Premier Rene Pleven, are a reflection of the urgent realization among the Atlantic Powers that their effort to increase their military manpower must be stepped up as much as the supply of arms.

Cyprus Priests Preach Enosis

NICOSIA, Sunday (Reuter). —Priests all over Cyprus today read from their altars a protest against the Government's refusal to allow public meetings arranged for today on Enosis (union with Greece)

The meetings were to protest against British Colonial Secretary James Griffiths' refusal to see a Cyprus delegation in London.

Today's protest was read at the direction of the Greek Supreme Church Council in Cyprus which organized an unofficial plebiscite in January showing an overwhelming vote in favour of Union.

Headed by the Bishop of Kyrenia the delegation left for the U.S. yesterday to continue their campaign and to strive to place the issue before the U.N. General Assembly.

Egypt Minister May Meet Bevin

CAIRO, Sunday (Reuter). — Egyptian Foreign Minister Saleh e-Din Bey told a press conference here today that it was "most possible" that he would hold discussions with British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin at Lake Success.

"If and when we meet we will naturally discuss matters of mutual concern," he added.

Mr. Bevin leaves Britain for Lake Success on Thursday.

Saleh e-Din Bey said he did not intend to raise the Anglo-Egyptian question in the U.N.

The Foreign Minister said that in their initial talks they did not ignore the Sudan question. "Although it was only raised on two occasions it is what was said that was important and not the length of time the subject was discussed," he said.

"The Egyptian Government has a very definite point of view regarding the right of the Sudanese to deal with their own affairs and that point of view is in contradiction to the present administration in Sudan with their Constituent Assembly."

Sir Ralph Stevenson was due to fly to London today to report to Mr. Bevin.

Replies Drafted

The Foreign Minister said that the Egyptian Government has already drafted replies to the American, British, and Norwegian protests against Egyptian action in preventing oil tankers destined for Israel from passing through the Suez Canal.

The minister also stressed that Arab support of Lebanon as a member of the U.N. Security Council did not reflect on the good relations between the Arab countries and Turkey. He said the Arab states did not hold the view that the Middle East seat on the Council should be reserved for Arab countries, but they feel that under present circumstances, they badly need a seat.

90,000 Strike In U.S. Labour Unrest

NEW YORK, Sunday (Reuter). — Labour disputes hit hard at American industries yesterday with strikes and threatened strikes throughout the country.

In three industries alone — electrical, farm implements and wall paper — more than 90,000 workers were made idle by stoppages.

Nearly 23,000 Congress of Industrial Organisations workers at the General Electric Company's New York and Massachusetts plants were already on strike and 25,000 were due to down tools on Tuesday elsewhere.

The walkouts have cut production of jet engines, aircraft instruments, television tubes and other equipment, some classified for military use.

CHINA AGAIN ACCUSES U.S. OF STRAFING

TOKYO, Sunday (UP).—The Chinese Communist radio today charged that American Mustang fighters strafed two Chinese boats on the Yalu River bound between Korea and Manuchuria on August 29, killing four and wounding seven boatmen.

CANADA BOOSTS DEFENCE SPENDING

OTTAWA, Sunday, (Reuter). — A bill to raise Canada's growing defence programme expenditure by $442,200,000 will be presented during the present special session of Parliament, it was announced here yesterday.

This expenditure would be in addition to the $425m. defence budget already approved.

Included in the $442m. is $142m. ear-marked for building up a special U.N. brigade and strengthening Canada's permanent forces.

Truman Calls For Labour Support

WASHINGTON, Sunday (Reuter). — President Truman, in an American Labour Day message today, said he knew he could count on the support of workers in the effort required to build defences against aggression.

Labour leaders at home and abroad sent messages supporting the U.N. action in Korea and backing the President's call for preparedness.

39 Dead, 13 Missing In Osaka Typhoon

OSAKA, Japan, Sunday (UP) — A typhoon left at least 39 dead and 13 missing when it hit this industrial town today.

Four American occupation soldiers were treated for minor injuries caused by falling glass and debris in Kobe.

11 DEAD IN CRASH

SINGAPORE, Sunday, (Reuter).—A rescue party with army escort today reached the Royal Air Force Dakota which crashed into the jungle in Malaya nine days ago, and found all 11 passengers and crew had been killed instantly.

The rescue party had to fight off a guerrilla attack as it hacked its way through the dense jungle.

Ehrenburg Suggests War Criminal Trials

MOSCOW, Sunday (UP). — Soviet author Ilja Ehrenburg, commenting on the forthcoming International Congress of Peace Partisans in London, suggested a compilation of a list of war criminals — businessmen, newspapermen, and political and "other lunatics" who want war.

He said a list for a contemplated international tribunal would contain the names of persons "who signed the memorandum of the so-called Committee for the Study of European Problems — politicians and journalists who insist on the immediate use of the atomic bomb or preventive war."

He declared that the Peace Partisans stood for the banning of all arms and not only the atom bomb.

Cables in Brief

ENGINE — A new British rocket plane engine, which uses hydrogen peroxide as fuel, will be on view for the first time next week at the annual air display of the society of British aircraft constructors at Farnborough.

COLLISION — A holiday convention of model railway enthusiasts ended in tragedy near Milwaukee on Sunday when two trains carrying visitors on sightseeing tours collided head on killing at least eight delegates and injuring about 90 others.

KASHMIR CRASH — Nine persons were killed and 35 injured yesterday in New Delhi when the Kashmir express, on its way to Delhi, was derailed when a bridge collapsed a few miles from the Indo-Pakistan border. Sabotage is suspected.

Delegates "Came to Listen"

LYDDA AIRPORT, Sunday. — This airport changed its appearance this morning for the arriving visitors. Scores of people had assembled long before the sun rose to welcome them, and large breakfast tables had been prepared in the restaurants.

Most of the delegates arrived by Air France just before 6 o'clock, while the remaining nine, including Mr. B. Browdy and Mr. L. Lipsky, touched down in a T.W.A. Constellation three hours later. Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett, Labour Minister Golda Myerson, and Mr. Levi Eshkol, head of the Jewish Agency Executive, welcomed the first group, and those members among them whom the Israel leaders had not met before were introduced by Mr. Henry Montor.

Mr. Browdy, President of the Z.O.A., said U.S. Zionist leaders had agreed on rough plans of "how to stir up American Jewry" and collect more funds. There was no doubt that American Jewry was keen to invest in Israel, he said.

Grey-haired Mr. Lipsky, of the U.P.A., said fund-raising should now undergo a complete change: "a proper financial manner" should replace the "hazardous campaigns," he declared, and that was what the delegates proposed to work out during the "Ben Gurion Meeting." Little was known in the U.S. of the three-year plan for which the $1,500m. were needed, he said

Busy Rabbis

None of the other delegates would comment, confining themselves to stating that they had come "to listen to suggestions."

Dr. Emanuel Neumann, former Z.O.A. President, said Dr. A. H. Silver and Dr. Israel Goldstein regretted to be unable to attend the meeting because as Rabbis they "were very busy before the High Holidays." Immediately after breakfast, the first group left for Jerusalem in a convoy of a dozen cars, preceded by two police outriders.

Also present to meet the group were Mr. Meyer W. Weisgal, Director of the Weizmann Institute; Mr. Elias Epstein, of the Jewish National Fund; Mr. Z. Giv'on, Deputy Chief of Protocol; Mrs. Mathilda Brailove, Chairman of the National Women's Division of the U.J.A.; Miss Esther Herlitz, of the U.S. Division of the Foreign Ministry; and the local heads of the U.J.A. Aloof-Mishneh Shoshanna Werner, Commander of the Chen, Sgan-Aloof Nehemia Argov, the Prime Minister's Military Adviser, and Mr. Y. Ettinger, of the Ministry of Defence, came to meet Mr. Browdy and Mr. F. Monosson.

Mr. T. Kollek, Director of the Foreign Ministry's U.S. Division, and Secretary to the Conference, returned with the Air France plane from the U.S.

THE JERUSALEM POST

THE JERUSALEM POST appears again today in curtailed format, because of the critical shortage of newsprint which is threatening the very appearance of the daily press in the country. By cutting down the number of pages between now and Rosh Hashana it may be possible to continue uninterrupted publication until the New Year, but unless new shipments arrive before that the papers will be compelled to close down shortly after the holiday.

AS everybody knows, the Kibbutz Hameuhad is not just now as united as its name. There is skirmishing in its ranks between Mapai and Mapam, and in the recent brush at Ashdoth Ya'akov it appears that Mapam came off second best.

SIGN OF THE TIMES

It is a problem in unstable equilibrium, in manoeuvring for position of command, to decide what, for good or ill, is going to be the ideological make-up and policy of the kibbutzim. The influence and effect of the kibbutzim in the complex of our lives in Israel is tremendous, and we should mark the lesson of Ashdoth. It enjoys a narrow Mapai majority among its members. Understandably, it is reluctant to see the pendulum swing leftwards, just as Mapam would be, in the opposite case, to see it swing to the Right. The balance is poised as delicately in many places — which makes the Ashdoth events all the more significant.

When it came to a vote whether to admit a Mapam training group to full membership, the Mapai-controlled Kibbutz committee blackballed the group, and made no secret of the reason. The Council of the Kibbutz Hameuhad met in extraordinary session to discuss the situation on appeal. There were stormy arguments and impassioned speeches, but the local insurrection was not put down, the Mapam graduates are still outside the fold of Ashdoth Ya'akov, and the major conflict is unresolved. The Council, with its Mapam majority, ruled to over-rule the reluctant kibbutz; the Mapai members on the Council said nothing, except to announce that they did not recognize the Council's right to over-rule; and the kibbutz itself unconcernedly upholds its decision.

Everybody is back where they started, but the new way, or the parting of the ways, is looming nearer. Mapam is not likely to be unanimously attracted to the simple expedient of dissolving partnership, with each partner taking its share of the assets in terms of kibbutzim and kvutzot. That would cut down the area of their evangelism for the Left, splitting the Kibbutz movement for ever on the organizational plane. Besides, it would by implication suggest that Mapam was committing itself to Communism once for all and turning its back upon the vital solidarity of Labour in Zionism, as an instrument for the redemption of the Land. Not all Mapam's protagonists are willing to take that irreversible step.

The fate not only of the Kibbutz Hameuhad but of the Histadrut and, even, of Israel, is engaged in the present heart-searchings within Mapam. Ashdoth Ya'akov is only a symptom of a long, weakening and grave disease; impulsive practitioners within Mapam urge an amputation; others, cooler and more calculating, are afraid that the amputation will be successful and that the patient will recover, but that Mapam may succumb.

BABY'S RATIONS

The Editor, The Jerusalem Post

Sir,—I have a baby of eight months. I cannot buy milk because, contrary to a previous announcement that there would be milk for babies every day, on two days a week I get none. I am unable to get an explanation from my supplier, "Tnuva." In the whole town I can find no powdered milk. I have no cornflour of any kind, because that, too, is unavailable.

But even if I had all these things, I could not prepare them because I have no sugar, my ration for August not yet having been issued.

Not being able to feed the baby properly, I wanted at least to keep him clean. But I have no soap to wash his linen as my August ration has not been issued. Incidentally, as I live on an upper story, I have no water from seven in the morning until four in the afternoon.

Yours, etc.,
ANNIE RUEBNER
Tel Aviv, August 28.

PROGRAMME VALUE

The Editor, The Jerusalem Post

Sir,—During the Haifa performance of the Chamber Theatre last week, programmes were sold for 50 pruta. These programmes consisted of one third adverts., one third of redundant drawings and a third for the cast. Someone should look into this so that the practice shall not be continued.

Most of the patrons re-sold their programmes to the very willing sellers for 20 pruta after a brief glance at the contents.

Would it be too much to ask the management, by the way, to start its shows not more than half an hour after the announced time?

Yours, etc.,
E. JOSEPH
Haifa, July 31.

Dispute Delays Classes

HAIFA, Sunday.— The opening of the school term in Neve Sha'anan has been held up by a dispute between the General and Labour school system.

Meanwhile, it was proposed that the city's Education Department should run the only school in Neve Sha'anan until then.
